Cross stitch can be done on a number of different fabrics, but the most common are Aida and linen. Both are woven fabrics that have a tendency to fray when cut. Before you start stitching, it is a good idea to bind the edges particularly if you are stitching a large project that will require lots of handling.

The Sewing Method of Cross Stitch. If you choose to stitch without a hoop, you gain the benefit of being able to flex your fabric so that you can quickly stitch through two holes at the same time. This cuts in half the number of moves you have to make to stitch a piece and can be really effective in blasting through smaller pieces.
